New website, new national market manager role created

ebm-papst A&NZ launches EC Upgrades for all your fan retrofit needs

For commercial office buildings, up to 70% of all energy use is attributed to the heating, ventilation, and air conditioning (HVAC) systems. Fan energy is typically the most significant consumer of energy within a commercial building.

A significant amount of energy can be saved by replacing existing and inefficient AC belt-driven fans with high-efficiency EC fans. This is why ebm-papst A&NZ has recently launched their new EC Upgrades business unit. EC Upgrades focuses especially on EC fan upgrades and retrofit projects in order to save facility managers and building owners energy and reduce noise emissions.

Thomas Heine, previously Sales Manager for Victoria at ebm-papst, has since been appointed market manager in a national capacity. Thomas will work with clients to develop energy-efficient fan retrofit solutions to fit any budget and performance requirements.

Upgrading existing fans with high efficiency alternatives inside HVAC fan products in retail, commercial and other building settings can dramatically cut a building's overall power consumption. Working together with clients, Thomas can deliver customised and complete replacement solutions to improve your building's HVAC systems.
